Filaments into the Beyond

Dear Friends,

The “Filaments into the Beyond” process will explore the domain of life in preparation for what will inevitably come after the physical demise of our shell host during this life.

The process will provide enough time to include introductory truths as well as deep and profound penetrating insights both in relation to the metamorphosis process from life in our earthly carnality to becoming an electrical form, and possibly, entering a higher complex host elsewhere.

We will explore the domain of the development and refinement needed for the various phases and possibilities within the realms of planetary reincarnation and universal immortality.

The process will be assisted by highly special and moving writings from the Trio, most of which are private and rarely opened. It will be enhanced by the inclusion of music, art, movement, meditations, conversations, ceremonies, and highly effective Emin technologies.

And, hopefully, with high unseen worlds' attendance, it's going to be a real Emin celebration in the Southern Hemisphere.

You are welcome to partake via physical presence or phone participation. You are all warmly welcome.

Ken, Nina

P.S.

And here is an entry coding quote into the domain we will be bathing in for your cogitation, if you so wish.

“If one accepts the notion that the Universe is a living being and not just a hosting void to masses of material, energy and life... That it is a purposeful intelligence seeking refining evolution — then the thinking into the domain of life after death must include core notions essential to its understanding.

The first notion is the essentialism of free will, which offers freedom from sterility, automation and eternal repetition that is the hallmark of an arrested life unable to evolve and refine, such as fauna and flora life.”
